

Location: 4140 Tejon St. - Denver, CO. 80211
Telephone: 303-433-4983
Web page: <http://www.conflictcenter.org>

Type of Organization: 501(c)(3) Non-profit corporation

Mission:

The Conflict Center's mission is to reduce levels of physical, verbal and emotional violence by teaching and applying skills to help people in diverse communities manage everyday conflicts nonviolently.

History:

The Conflict Center (TCC) began in 1987 with the vision of Elizabeth Loescher who started TCC out of her basement. Ms. Loescher was a classroom teacher who found that a significant portion of her time was being spent refereeing her students' disagreements and conflicts. Because this detracted from her time as an educator, she decided to develop a curriculum that teaches young people the skills they need to manage of their own conflicts in the classroom or on the playground. The curriculum she devised is called Peacemaking Made Practical and was originally designed for elementary school students. It now has been adapted for middle and high school students. This school-based curriculum has been proven effective based on empirical data and forms the basis for The Conflict Center's 3-phase school curriculum.

Programs:

School Program: This program aims to educate students, school staff and parents in conflict and anger management and includes assessment, skill building, and leadership development. The School Program provides: Professional Development for Teachers, Reading for Peace, Playground Conflict Managers, Peace Days, Social Norming, and Restorative Justice Circles.

Youth at Risk Program: This program targets youth identified by juvenile courts and schools due to high-risk behaviors and provides them with skills to reduce physical, verbal and emotional violence. The program is offered in either a 6 or an 8 week series on Critical Decision Making and Emotional Intelligence Skills and includes parents in 3 of the 6 sessions and 4 of the 8 sessions.

Adult Program: Designed for men and women over the age of 18, this series provides the skills necessary to recognize and manage anger before it escalates to a destructive level. It also teaches the skills necessary to recognize conflict, and to manage it in a way that builds and strengthens relationships rather than having conflict tear relationships down.

Training for Business and Organizations: These programs aim to work with a broad group of diverse organizations, offering Conflict and Anger Management in the Workplace, Intergenerational Conflict, Restorative Justice, Leadership & Team Building and Effective Communication.

Facts:

- During 2008 TCC had 6,272 hours of time contributed by 144 volunteers
- In 2008 TCC's volunteers, interns and board members contributed the equivalent of $127,008.00
- More than 50% of TCC services are provided to low income individuals, families and communities.
- More than 70% of TCC services go to minority populations.
- During 2008 TCC served more than 100 organizations.
- 80% of youth who start a TCC series successfully complete our classes.
- 88% of students who said they never consider the consequences moved toward sometimes, often or always considering the consequences of their decisions after taking our class.
- 84% who felt like they had to fight when mad now believe they can deal with issues without getting physical.
- 70% of youth who took our class now believe they can get someone to stop teasing them without hitting them.
- 64% of students who took our classes now believe they can talk someone out of trying to fight with them.